

High performing primary care webinar series

Series three: Population and digital health

Northern Queensland Primary Health Network (NQPHN) and AGPAL have teamed up to provide a free targeted education program via a three-part webinar series for healthcare providers in our region

Digital health plays an important role in team-based care and patient shared care planning. Engaging in digital transformation is essential to inform and activate patients to securely share personalised care plans across teams, and to use population health information to underpin quality improvement and resource allocation.

These sessions will include topics that discuss:

- value of population management in high performing primary care
- tools and strategies to meet contemporary population management challenges
- importance of data, patient registries, and electronic tools in the better management of patients
- team-based care and population management
- role of population health tools to improve patient, clinical, and practice outcomes
- how quality data supports quality improvement
- clinical coding and records maintenance
- privacy principles and compliance for digital health.
