Northern Queensland Primary Health Network (NQPHN) is offering allied health providers and general practices across the NQPHN region access to a 12-month funded subscription to Medical-Objects.

What is Medical-Objects

Medical-Objects is a secure messaging provider offering real-time, point-to-point technology that connects over 119,000 health professionals. The system enables secure communication and tracks clinical correspondence between healthcare providers. Medical-Objects integrates with all major practice software vendors.

GP Standard Edition – secure, real-time communication

The Medical-Objects GP Standard Edition allows you to send and receive patient results, letters, and other correspondence directly from your clinical software using the Referral Client. It's secure, fast, and compliant with national standards.

Option 1 – Allied Health Standard Edition

Send letters to GPs or other health providers in a fast, secure, and flexible way. Correspondence can be sent directly from your practice software or Microsoft Word (on a Windows PC) using an easy-to-install Word plugin. Messages are trackable in real time with the Medical-Objects delivery report—giving you complete visibility and control.

Option 2 – Allied Health Practice Software Plan

Medical-Objects Explorer Online is a web-based solution that simplifies the management of your clinical correspondence—no software installation is required.

Best suited for allied health providers who:

- don't use traditional practice software
- work across multiple sites
- need a mobile-friendly, real-time messaging platform.

Online registration

Only a limited number of funded subscriptions are available. Interested practices must submit an expression of interest at <https://forms.office.com/r/xZKvvNLYDT> or scan the QR code.
