My Health Record

The Government is expanding My Health Record for all Australians in 2018

- Forming the cornerstone of a better health system and digital health innovations for Australia.
- Expanding on an existing, proven system that is safe and secure.
- Giving all Australians control of their own health record, what it contains and how it is accessed.
- Providing a choice to opt out of having a My Health Record altogether if they prefer.

Our vision is a world-leading national, digital health capability that improves the lives of all Australians by supporting the efficient delivery of healthcare.

My Health Record provides for potentially lifesaving access to a patient’s key health information such as medications, allergies, conditions and test results - supporting significant improvements in the safety, quality and efficiency of Australia’s healthcare system.
