WOMEN’S HEALTH THROUGH THE LIFE STAGES

Continence Foundation of Australia Queensland Branch Inc.
State Conference

REGISTRATION BROCHURE

Brisbane Convention and Exhibition Centre
March 9th 2018
South Bank
The Continence Foundation Australia, Qld Branch Inc, is very pleased to invite you to participate in our 5th Annual State Conference. It is to be held at the Brisbane Convention and Exhibition Centre at Brisbane's South Bank.

We are again in Brisbane and we hope to appeal to health professionals from Brisbane and the South East, Regional Queensland and northern NSW. Our previous conferences have been very well supported by multi-disciplinary health professionals interested in continence. We anticipate a good number of health professionals will register for the 2018 conference.

I invite you to participate in a trade exhibition in support of the Conference. Your company’s participation will confirm your position as a major industry stakeholder and provide the opportunity to grow your business.

Women’s health through the life stages

The dynamic program includes local and interstate speakers including Professor Hans Peter Dietz, Pelvic Floor Physiotherapist Natalie McConochie and Professor Leonie Callaway. Topics will include guidelines for safe exercise during pregnancy; managing bladders from a nursing perspective post-partum and post-operatively; managing OASIS; vulval skin care; levator avulsion and much more.

The Continence Foundation of Australia – Queensland Branch State Conference Organising Committee invite you to join us for this event and to stay for drinks and canapes afterwards.

We look forward to your organisations’ involvement and contribution to the success of this state conference. A variety of Sponsorship Packages have been created for your consideration.

Please direct all enquiries to Ty Fleming – Conference Link on tdf@conferencelink.com.au Phone: 07 3851 4298 / Fax 07 3851 1427

I look forward to seeing you March 9th at the BCEC, Brisbane.

Kind Regards

Allison Bryant

President
Continence Foundation of Australia – Queensland Branch

Nat graduated from the University of Sydney in 2003 & commenced working at Dubbo Base Hospital in 2004 in a variety of roles including outpatient services for musculoskeletal problems, & inpatient services in orthopaedics, respiratory, neurological & paediatric physiotherapy. In 2010 Nat was instrumental in setting up the Level 4 Women’s Health & Paediatric position at Dubbo Base Hospital before joining the team at Macquarie Women’s Health Dubbo in 2014. For 5 years now she has focused on pelvic floor issues and has been tutoring with the Women’s Health Training Institute.
INVITED SPEAKERS

Amy Dawes
Amy Dawes is a mother of two, co-founder and executive director of the Australasian Birth Trauma Association. Since her own traumatic birth experience in December 2013, she became passionate about raising awareness for pelvic floor dysfunction post childbirth. Having both received and given vital peer support, Amy knows how crucial it is for mothers to be able to connect and share their experiences with real women brave enough to share their stories. Amy has understood the importance of also finding a team of trusted health professionals to ensure the best level of care surrounding mental and physical distress. As a direct result of her journey, Amy co-founded the Australasian Birth Trauma Association (ABTA) along with Professor Dietz and Elizabeth Skinner. ABTA seeks to assist women through their own journey after a traumatic birth by providing them with the information, resources, and support required to manage their symptoms while raising a family, participating in the workforce and being active in their community. Amy’s vision is to break down the stigma attached to pelvic floor dysfunction or prolapse and empower women to feel comfortable speaking out in order to continue driving change for those women deeply affected by birth trauma.

Lori Forner
Lori completed her Bachelor’s degree in Science at the University of Guelph in her home province of Ontario, Canada. Lori moved to Brisbane in 2004 where she completed her Graduate Entry Masters in Physiotherapy Studies. Lori has developed a deep clinical interest in helping patients who are suffering with persistent pelvic pain, as well as balancing pelvic floor dysfunctions within fitness and sport.

Lori is currently a MPhil/PhD candidate at the University of Queensland with Dr Michelle Smith, Dr Emma Beckman and Prof Paul Hodges. Lori provides articles and lectures for allied health professionals, and educates the community on pelvic health through her podcast, The Pelvic Health Podcast.

Siona Hardy
Siona Hardy is a Senior Physiotherapist, Lecturer at UQ and Director of Clinical Operations at Active Rehabilitation Physiotherapy and the Mars Clinic in Queensland. Having graduated with a Bachelor of Physiotherapy (Honours) and Masters of Business Administration, she has been involved in the establishment of the Mars Clinic since its inception. The clinic provides state-of-the-art assessment and treatment to children and adolescents with bladder and bowel conditions. Siona works alongside a dedicated team who are involved in a range of research, professional education and community education projects. Siona and the Mars Clinic team were finalists in the 2017 National HESTA Primary Health Care awards.
Elaine Miller
Elaine Miller is a physiotherapist, comedian and recovered incontinent. In 2013 she wrote “Gusset Grippers” a comedy show about pelvic floors which won “Weirdest show of the Edinburgh Fringe”.

Elaine has spoken at international conferences and festivals, on the radio and television. She has written for Evidently Cochrane, Urology Times, Mumsnet, Babycentre and has a clinic in Edinburgh. Her ambition is to examine whether humour can be an effective health promotion tool.

Neroli Ngenda
Dr Neroli Ngenda is a specialist Obstetrician and Gynaecologist. She graduated from the University of Queensland followed by training in Obstetrics and Gynaecology at the Royal Brisbane and Women’s Hospital. Neroli has maintained a private obstetrics and gynaecology practice at Sunnybank Private Hospital since 2002. She is a senior gynaecologist at the Royal Brisbane and Women’s Hospital involved in gynaecology and the Vulval Clinic, which she established.

She is also a Clinical Lecturer with the University of Queensland teaching medical students at the Royal Brisbane and Women’s Hospital. Dr Ngenda has a special interest in vulval disease and she is a member of the Australian and New Zealand Vulvovaginal Society.

Elizabeth M Skinner:
PhD candidate Sydney Medical School Nepean, The University of Sydney, supervisor Prof Hans Peter Dietz; Master of Health Science (Ed.); registered midwife & registered nurse with clinical expertise in neonatal intensive care & trauma nursing; university academic & lecturer; co-founder of Australasian Birth Trauma Association
INVITED SPEAKERS

Julie Westaway
Julie was a practising midwife, lactation consultant, and child and adolescent health nurse in both the acute and community sector for 18 years. This experience guided her special interest in continence and urogynaecology. Julie is currently the Nurse Practitioner Urogynaecology/Continence at the Darling Downs Hospital and Health Service. She has developed nurse-led clinics in the management of pelvic organ prolapse, nurse cystoscopist training and intravesical therapies. Currently she is implementing bladder care programs in the midwifery unit.

Vivien Wong
Dr Vivien Wong is a urogynaecologist currently practising in Brisbane and the Gold Coast. As a consultant in Robina Hospital, she has also set up the perineal assessment clinic, where she provides objective assessment of patients following obstetric anal sphincter injury. She has a passion for pelvic floor ultrasound and is undertaking a PhD in the area of prolapse management.
