Northern Queensland Primary Health Network invites GPs and Community Care providers to a consecutive two-day training workshop.

This workshop will address needs of the local Isaac community and build capacity for GPs and Community Care providers to provide holistic and appropriate care for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander patients.

Keynote Presenter: Professor Gracelyn Smallwood

Learning outcomes:
• identify and reflect on personal values and attitudes toward diverse cultures and enhance skills to engage in a culturally safe appropriate manner
• develop skills to assess current service barriers to access and recognise opportunities to enhance services to enable ease of access, and apply clinical decision making and cultural awareness to inform health advocacy for patients with culturally diverse backgrounds
• develop skills to recognise cultural connectedness of patient and family through an understanding of the importance of family, kinship, and connection to country
• yarning space – understanding of community needs to develop the implementation of support and referral services
• practice incentives programs accessing the Indigenous health incentives and CTG PBS prescriptions.

DATE
Saturday 27 April 2019– Sunday 28 April 2019

TIME
Saturday
Registration: 8.30am
Saturday Program: 9am–3pm
Sunday Program: 8.30am-2.30pm

WHERE
Moranbah Community Centre
89 Mills Avenue
Moranbah

REGISTER ONLINE
https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/WMXPQFQ

Angela Meyer
p: (07) 4963 4415
e: angela.meyer@nqphn.com.au
w: nqphn.com.au/events/